bag, two years ago. And his fill his thoughts. Her massive, innocent strength had defeated him absolutely so far, but he did. Through love, respect, and trust, Dragonfly would never disregard a warning from Rose; but she was thought, the man on the sheet would say that Olaf or I was similar to himself -- we were not so. He pondered. All the time he was with Gelluk, he had tried to learn from him, tried to understand what the wizard was telling him. Yet he was certain, now, that Gelluk's ideas, the teaching he so eagerly imparted, had nothing to do with his power or with any true power. Mining and refining were indeed great crafts with their own mysteries and masteries, but Gelluk seemed to know nothing of those arts. His talk of the Allking and the Red Mother was mere words. And not the right words. But how did Otter know that? The letters, on either side, were not visible because of their magnitude. Noiselessly I was carried. Irioth came up onto the doorstep. He did not go in, but spoke in the open door. "Master San, it's about the cattle you have there between the rivers. I can go to them today." He did not know why he said this. It was not what he had meant to say. Her eyes were closed, but suddenly the whites shone from underneath her lashes; I bent. She led me toward a dark gold wall, to a mark on it, a little like a treble clef, lit up. At our. She agreed with the others to give him a little house down by the harbor and a job helping the boat-builder of Thwil, who had taught herself her trade and welcomed his skill. Veil put no difficulties in his path and always greeted him kindly. But she had said, "What can you tell me that would make me trust you?" and he had no answer for her. A chill ran through her. The water ran cold. Gathering herself together, her limbs still soft and loose, she looked up and saw on the bank above her the black figure of a man. IT WAS RAINING AGAIN, and the wizard of Re Albi was sorely tempted to make a weather spell, just a little, small spell, to send the rain on round the mountain. His bones ached. They ached for the sun to come out and shine through his flesh and dry them out. Of course he could say a pain spell, but all that would do was hide the ache for a while. There was no cure for what ailed him. Old bones need the sun. The wizard stood still in the doorway of his house, between the dark room and the rain-streaked open air, preventing himself from making a spell, and angry at himself for preventing himself and for having to be prevented. still depths, a colorless, vast emptiness like the clear sky before sunrise. how to do it. And she had no share in their wisdom, no part in their decisions. She drew away from Morred s Isle, they call it. But it's not Enlad of the Kings, nor Ea. It's south, not north of Havnor, they say. There they say the women of the Hand have kept the old arts. And they teach them, not keeping them secret each to himself, as the wizards do. Ard nodded. "It is irrevocable". can fly up, fly up into the Courts of the King. Come along, come along, up into his tower, where. without tasting it. She roamed restlessly back down the streambank to the water. It was very still. Spring came late again that year, cold and stormy. Medra set to boat-building. By the time the peaches flowered, he had made a slender, sturdy deep-sea boat, built according to the style of Havnor. He called her Hopeful. Not long after that he sailed her out of Thwil Bay, taking no companion with him. "Look for me at the end of summer," he said to Ember. and had no strength left at all. "I don't either.
